COUNTRY CLUB TO HOLD LUNCHEON NEXT WEDNESDAY

AMERICAN HOME TO BE THEME OF ANNUAL EVENT AT CENTERVILLE

CENTERVILLE — An old fashioned American home will furnish the theme for the annual luncheon of the Country Club of Washington Township to be given in the club house next Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock. "The American Home, its Heritage and Responsibilities," is the theme chosen by the president, Mrs Loren Marriott. OFFICERS DISCOVER CASE OF DYNAMITE ON ALAMEDA CREEK

If anybody noticed Deputy Sheriffs Henry Vervais and Wallace Ebright proceeding with undue caution down Niles Canyon highway one day this week, it wasn't because they had a case of over-ripe eggs on the back seat of their car. Rather it was 50 pounds of dynamite just waiting for a sufficient jostle to set off an explosion.

The case of dynamite was found a mile and a half east of Niles in the brush along Alameda Creek by Ernest Martin, foreman of maintenance crew for the San Francisco Water Department. Age had reduced the contents to a highly dangerous condition. On the package was printed Hercules Blasting Gelatin, Feb. 5, 1925. The dynamite is thought to have been left by some construction crew 15 years ago.

Mrs Carl Klinkle entertained her bridge club at dessert yesterday afternoon.

Down Comes the Curtain!

Miss California (Connie O'Connor) pulls down the curtain on Pacifica, theme statue of the 1940 Golden Gate International Exposition, which concludes its run September 29.

WEDDING KNOT TIED WHILE CROSSING BAY BRIDGE SPAN

"Do you take this woman—"

The wedding ceremony was interrupted and Meinrad Imfeld, 33, of Dad's Place, Niles Canyon, took Kathryn Rand to the Oakland-San Francisco Bay bridge to complete the tying of the nuptial knot.

Rev. Alfred Glass, San Francisco Presbyterian minister noticed suddenly as he was proceeding with the holy bonds of matrimony that the license had been secured in Alameda County. "We have to make it legal," was his comment, so the bride-almost and the groom practically hurried into a car along with witnesses and members of the family and the ceremony was performed just across the county line on the bridge — the first to take place there so far as is known in these parts.

A part of the ensemble that accompanied the bizarre procedure was Bounds Rousseau, 37, brother of the bride who left this week for Honolulu on the first leg of his 25th trip around the world. Bounds who started on his sea-faring career by shipping as a cabin boy on what later developed to be a tramp steamer with a two-year itinerary was only 12 years old when he first got the taste of salt on his lips and mastered the art of sea-legs. It was a fatal injection and he's never been content to be a landlubber since. This time he's sailing as first engineer on the President Polk, American Presidents Line and will say hello to Hawaii, Japan, Bombay, Capetown and way points around the globe.

The Rousseau family came to California from Houston, Texas about eight years ago. Jack, another brother also resides at Dad's Place.

Construction of the new home of Mr and Mrs Leland Crane in the Old Adobe Acres was started last week.

SAFEWAY OFFERS HALF PRICE TICKETS TO EXPOSITION

TREASURE ISLAND — Three half-price days will make the Exposition a rallying point for bargain hunters this weekend, September 7, 8 and 9.

These are "Safeway Customers Days", and a special program of entertainment has been scheduled to make them the most attractive and colorful weekend of the Fair.

Half-price admission tickets are on sale in nearly 500 Safeway Stores, in Northern and Central California. The tickets sell for 25 instead of the usual 50 cents, and are good for admission on any of the three days — Sept. 7 (Saturday), Sept. 8 (Sunday) and Sept. 9 (Admission Day).

For children, from six through sixteen years of age, a special 10 cent ticket may be obtained at the Safeway Stores. The half-price tickets are being distributed by the stores as a service to the region and there is no obligation to make a purchase in the stores.

ATTINGER SELLS GILMORE STATION TO JOE CLEVENGER

Dick Attinger, well - known businessman of Niles, the first of this week announced the sale of the Gilmore Station at the west end of Niles, which he has operated for the past four years, to Joe Clevenger, formerly of Hayward, who is now in charge.

Attinger is working daytime at the county yard near Niles and spends his evenings calling on prospective buyers of Pontiac auto mobiles, for which he has a dealership.

He asks the same cordial relationship from his customers for Mr Clevenger, the new operator of the Gilmore station, whom the businessmen of this community welcome to Niles.

750,000 TO SEE ALAMEDA COUNTY'S FINE EXHIBIT

With the distinction of being the first of the score or more of magnificent agricultural displays to be finished at Los Angeles County fair in Pomona, Alameda county's colorful feature entry promises to be an outstanding attraction in the huge palace of agriculture.

The fair opens Friday, September 13 and will continue through September 29. During the 17 days it is expected that 750,000 people will view the beautiful creation with its graphic story of wealth of products and diversity of industry.

Occupying a commanding position directly in the path of the multitudes, the entry presents an Old World inn, rustic, homey and inviting. Ivy twines about its walls and about the rocks which form its foundation. There is a strong atmosphere of the Swiss, and it might easily be nestled at the foot of the towering Alps. On three sides are spacious gabled windows. On the fourth, the butt of a great wine cask protrudes.

While wines hold an important place in the exhibit, other products for which the county is famous, are not neglected. Prominence is given to the flowers for which Alameda is also renouned. By special arrangements fresh blooms will be rushed south each day by airplane to delight the multitudes.

In rustic lettering on the Inn, the public is informed that Alameda county is the third largest in the state in population and wealth, besides being an aviation center of the Pacific coast. It is also designated as the dry white wine center of the United States and the flower garden of California. The exhibit was prepared under the direction of Major N. W. Armstrong of the Alameda County Development Association.

YOUR CHILD CAN STUDY BETTER WITH BETTER LIGHT FOR BETTER SIGHT

September with school and study means more than just books, new shoes and new clothes.

For instance, are young eyes ready to stand the strain of long hours of study? If eyestrain is threatening, have eyes examined by an eye specialist. Then check the lighting by which the student must see to study.

Why take a chance with ordinary light that merely looks good enough for a child's study desk? One easy way to provide grade A light for grade A study is with an I.E.S. Study Lamp. Those lamps provide a generous amount of soft, glareless light that makes seeing easy. Incidentally, you'll find better light helpful yourself. Try it and you'll want it for the whole family.

HIGHLIGHTS and PERSONALITIES IN THE PROGRESS of HAYWARD

By Bianca & Gerald E. Marvin

HAYWARD BODY WORKS

This establishment, under the management of M. R. Yeager, is located at 145 Castro, Hayward, telephone 2201.

Even though many individuals and organizations are carrying on campaigns for more careful driving of cars, the steady and rapid increase in the number of vehicles on the streets and highways makes the total elimination of smashups impossible. For many miles around experienced motorists and garage men have learned to call upon this firm for service on wrecked cars. In many cases they have completely restored wrecked cars which owners had thought were beyond the aid of expert service.

Their service is known far and wide for its excellent work in the body rebuilding department and has rebuilt many damaged bodies. This firm is considered an authority upon body rebuilding and is consulted by many on this work. Also they are equipped to straighten axles and chassis of your car regardless of the shape they are in, bring them back to factory specifications without removing any parts. This is a great saving for their customers.

Associated with them you will find only the competent, for it is the policy of this establishment not only that each member of the management be expert but each employe as well.

In making this review of the onward progress we wish to compliment this well known establishment upon a superior service and one that is ever courteous and satisfactory. -adv.

STAR CLEANERS

Louis Raulin Propietor

This establishment located at 879 Castro, Hayward, telephone 358 does expert cleaning, pressing and repairing. There is no one concern in this city that has done more for the good of the public during this era of high prices than this well-known cleaning establishment. O K AUTO PARTS

Used Cars and Parts Bought and Exchanged

This firm, located at 24766 Niles Road, Hayward, telephone 1185, D. E. Galer, propietor, furnishes a most excellent service in a business everyone should support. They offer an opportunity to make great savings on used parts of automobiles.

They are among the various concerns who make a specialty of making use of waste materials. This is applied to a great many articles but to no greater degree than to an automobile.

They tear down and utilize the parts in various ways. They place on the market parts practically as good as new at very moderate prices. This accrues to the benefit of the motorist and this fact alone is causing concerns such as this one to increase in popularity each year.

The men in charge realize that only by giving the best of service could they hope to succeed and thus they have insisted on carrying this idea into every transaction they make.

We are pleased to compliment the O K Auto Parts upon the nature of the business and to assure all our readers that whenever they have anything to dispose of in their line they should get in touch with this firm. -avd.

WARREN TRANSPORTATION COMPANY

The Warren Transportation Co. located on Hesperian Boulevard, Hayward, telephone 158, offers economical and speedy service which is a definite asset to any community.

Without the invention of the first crude wheel the progress of civilization would have been impossible, for the story of transportation has been that of historys' advance through the ages. Napoleon's army depended upon it and still today transportation holds its importance in the lives of men.

It is cheaper and far more satisfactory to patronize service of this type than to worry about handling and rehandling shipments by other methods.

The study of the business success of the Warren Transportation Co. is attributable to the aforementioned business policies and to the business acumen and experience of the manager of this company, plus a sincere desire to give the same attention to large and small orders alike.

This transportation company must be numbered among the concerns that are forwarding the progress of this community. -adv.

"THERE'LL ALWAYS BE ENGLAND"

There's a complacent conceit about an Englishman that no other race or breed of men can quite equal. To the Britisher, of course, it isn't conceit, for anything not made in Britain — to a man of Britain — is simply second-best and has been since the world began. The Britisher knows that — and knowing it, sees no good reason for not admitting it. To others, an Englishman may, at times, seem cock-sure, bumptious and even arrogant. But in his own glass your British friend sees only a steady-going English gentleman, who takes the world as he finds it, but prefers it British.

And now, reading of the magnificent defense which the Tommies are putting up in the Battle of Britain, and noting the terse matter-of-factness of official British communiques, it is difficult at first thought for many Americans to reconcile the Englishmen they've met with the laconic Englishmen who are boldly trading blow for blow with Hitler and making little fuss about it.

Actually, however, there's nothing strange about it. The British are at their best when the going gets roughest, probably because it has never occurred to your real Britisher that he could ever get the worst of it. Even though terse of speech, the men of England are still boasting of England — but through acts, rather than words. There are bombs drenching English soil with the blood of women and children. But the English speak little of that; they roar into the skies with such ferocity and calm assurance of ultimate victory that they have been taking a toll of three planes for one of Hitler's invading forces.

The odds against them are most formidable, but to the English mind the power can never be on this earth that can conquer the British Isles and make slaves of Englishmen. And the way the valiant, tough (yes cocky!) British fighters are making good on every boast of British self-esteem, our impulse is to give our English cousins a tremendous hand along with all the war supplies we can send — and to hope, in the words of bleeding England's defiant war song, that "There'll Always Be England".

A NATION HANDICAPPED

With many loudly shouting that grave dangers now confront America — greater dangers than ever before — and others shouting as vociferously that the dangers are not as imminent as advance notices proclaim, we try to glean from the pronounciamentos of the administration just how grave the dangers are. But we are immediately confronted by the fact that during the past seven long years and more this same administration has had in its employ paid propagandists to assist it in foisting upon the people its own ideas of government, many of which have been without merit. We remember how we were betrayed a quarter-century ago. And we don't have to go back so far — only to the election of 1936 — to recollect how the people's money was apparently spent at the most opportune time to affect the most votes. And we know, right now, that this same administration is seeking to perpetuate itself in power by overthrowing a sound American tradition — one which oft-quoted members of the president's own party, both in the past and in the present, have stated should never be overthrown. And we wonder who to believe —what to believe. We wonder if tthe motives of some are actuated by politics, patriotism, or prejudice. And we wonder if those whose patriotism may be real have not been unduly influenced by propagandists paid to put over on them another idea of the new deal.

This is the maze in which we, to some extent, find ourselves. Others, also, are doubtless floundering in the slough of indecision, the only light in the inky darkness overhead being the rays of the new deal star, which they have learned to distrust because it has so often led only to those things designed to feed its own illumination.

If this country is faced by a crisis, it needs now one who can bring order out of chaos — one who at least does not handicap the nation because of a past record that causes those who should be united to question the motive behind everything that emanates from Washington.

IF your advertisement were in this space, as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advertisement isn't here, and because it isn't, many people will go elsewhere to get what they might have bought from you!

Fair--Half Price at the Fair

Cutting your entertainment costs in half is pretty Flower of the Folies, who is one of the prime boosters for Safeway Customers Days at the Golden Gate International Exposition, September 7, 8 and 9. These tickets are being distributed through 500 Safeway stores in Northern and Central California for 25c — half the regular admission price to Treasure Island on San Francisco Bay.

DEMOCRACY GETS THE BENEFIT

Those who have been told to view with alarm the power of advertising would do well to consider its accomplishments.

It has raised the standard of American living by introducing new product after new product into our consciousness and homes. It has reduced the price of commodity after commodity by increasing acceptance and decreasing manufacturing and selling cost.

More than any other force, advertising in this way contributes to democracy. It breads down the wall between our rural and urban populations. The farmer and small-town dweller learn about new and better things as quickly as those in the great metropolitan market centers, says Nation's Business. Advertising has sold us better habits in eating, dressing, shaving, bathing. It has sold us better ways of cooking, cleaning our clothes and houses and getting from place to place.

Those who oppose advertising as an essential part of mass selling are really opposing mass production and, in so doing, are trying to deny to the average person the articles he wants at prices he can afford to pay.

So the crusade against advertising is either ignorant or sinister. And like all crusades led by ignoramuses or by rascals it has met the opposition of every thinking American. Like law, like business, advertising is something which intelligent people are determined to have.

Advertising prospers as it serves. Despite all the handicaps imposed by its enemies it is flowering in this country as an indispensable part of the American system of free enterprise and of American democracy.

- Persistency in advertising is essential to business success.
- Keep advertising and advertising will keep you.

Continual Daily Supply

THERE IS RECORDED in Exodus a most remarkable manifestation of daily supply (Exodus 16:4, 15): "Then said the Lord unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a certain rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no. . . . And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, It is manna: for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

What is termed social security engages much time and thought today; particularly is this so among those who place their entire dependence upon material means. Apparent conditions of insecurity, lack, or poverty are prevalent among many classes of people, because men have not yet generally learned that the source of security, supply—of all good—is Mind, God, not matter.

Ways and means have been sought to secure for humanity some sort of daily supply. Mainly these efforts have been along material lines. . . .

Looking to matter as the source of supply, mankind is often disappointed and perplexed. . . .

When one turns to God for help in time of need, as did Moses, one turns to the ultimate source of all good. Jesus taught absolute reliance upon God. . . .

God's law of ever-available supply knows no past, and no future; it is operative now and forever. Scientifically to understand this fact frees one from anxious thought about tomorrow, and gives one a clear sense that all good, all supply, all health—the fullness of harmony—are now. In "Unity of Good," Mary Baker Eddy states (p. 41), "The sweet and sacred sense of the permanence of man's unity with his Maker can illumine our present being with a continual presence and power of good, opening wide the portal from death into Life; and when this Life shall appear 'we shall be like Him,' and we shall go to the Father, not through death, but through Life; not through error, but through Truth." . . .

The continuity of good is the spiritual fact of which we can become conscious here and now. Since the source of all good is infinite Spirit, good itself is spiritual and infinite, to be realized in proportion to the individual's understanding of spiritual realities.

The continual daily supply of good flowing from divine Love to each one knows no limitation, no cessation, no interference, and no obstruction to its clear expression. It includes and embodies the full fruition of hope, understanding, confidence, and expectancy of good.

The individual discernment of this truth is requisite to its attainment or demonstration. St. Paul recognized this fact when he said in his second letter to the Corinthians (9:8), "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work." . . .

One's continual daily supply of good comes naturally and spontaneously, as one places his entire dependence upon divine Love. It is not subject to material conditions, neither is it in any way limited or restricted. It comes, as did the manna in the wilderness, through the operation of the law of infinite good, through which also the loaves and fishes were multiplied. This ever-present, continuous supply is the divinely natural manifestation of God's loving care for His children, and is exemplified in daily experience, proving conclusively that active faith combines with right activity of thought, deed, and purpose, in the unfolding of the good which God has abundantly prepared for all His children.

Lift Up THINE Eyes

IN the five generations since 1740, we Americans have performed the heroic task of clearing, populating, farming, industrializing and civilizing a country larger than England, France, Germany, Spain and Italy put together.

Because we have looked always forward and upward, and have worked hard, we have achieved the highest standard of living in the world.

One of the most potent of all the forces that have created this living standard is advertising, which inspires us to want always the new and better things and ways of life.

Of late years it has been the fashion among our radical reformers to attack advertising as an economic waste.

How silly, in view of the magnificent service it has rendered us! Let's encourage it and use it for an ever brighter future.

LATE AUGUST MAY WAS PROMINENT CITIZEN HERE

Friends and relatives are mourning the sudden death of Mr. August May of Alvarado, who died on Saturday, August 24.

The late Mr May was born in Alvarado on December 13, 1866 and has resided in his home town for his entire life. He came of a pioneer family who settled in Alvarado in 1852; his parents were the late August May Sr., and Sophia May, the latter having passed away 10 years ago.

In his early years he was a farmer, later he was associated with Hellwig and company. He was better known, however, as president of the Bank of Alameda County, consisting of three branches — one each at Alvarado, Irvington and Niles. These banks he was instrumental in organizing and he was elected as the first president and general manager and continued in that capacity until its absorption by the Central Bank of Oakland, at which time he retired and gave his personal attention to his property interests in Washington Township.

He was well known all over Alameda County and particularly among the banking interests of Oakland and San Francisco. He has long enjoyed a high reputation as a business man and upright citizen.

He leaves his widow, Mrs Jeannette Decoto May, to whom he was married 49 years ago. She was a member of another pioneer family of Washington Township — the late Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Decoto Sr., who were founders and first settlers of the town of Decoto.

Wallace, 20, went to the county jail for 30 days, having pleaded guilty to driving while drunk and without operator's license. He told Judge J. A. Silva he had never tried to get a license.
